WE USE PRONOUNS AS SUBJECTS OF SENTENCES AND OBJECTS OF SENTENCES.

Look at the chart above.

What is the difference between the subject pronoun and the object pronoun?
Question: What are the different types of pronouns?
Answer: There are four types of pronouns: Subject Pronouns, Object Pronouns, Possessive Pronouns and Demonstrative Pronouns. Here is a list and explanation showing the different types of pronouns:

- Subject Pronouns - I, you, he, she, it, we, you, they function as the subject of a sentence:

  I live in New York.
  Do you like playing tennis?
  He doesn’t want to come this evening.
  She works in London.
  It won’t be easy.
  We are studying pronouns at the moment.
  You went to Paris last year, didn’t you?
  They bought a new car last month.

- Object Pronouns - me, you, him, her, it, us, you, them serve as the object of a verb.

  Give me the book.
  He told you to come tonight.
  She asked him to help.
  They visited her when they came to New York.
  She bought it at the store.
  He picked us up at the airport.
  The teacher asked you to finish your homework.
  I invited them to a party.
Personal pronouns are used to represent people. They can show first person (the speaker), second person (the person being spoken to), or third person (the person being spoken about).

If the pronoun is the subject of the sentence, we say it is a subject pronoun (sometimes called a nominative pronoun). If the pronoun is the object of the sentence, we say it is an object pronoun.
